away cavalry horse saved "Chico" Rio Grande by the Eighth cavalry throughout the Big Bend district as a desperate character, was in command of a band of Mexicans who raided an American ranch, drove off a herd of cattle to Mexico. The cavalry gave chase, forded the Rio Grande and located the bandits in their camp while they were cooking supper. Captain Leonard Matlack, commanding the troop, ordered his men to dismount and surround the camp. Recognizing "Chico" Cano, Captain Matlack was about to fire on him when one of the cavalry horses stampeded and Cano escaped with a bullet in his leg.
